2 INT. IN THE TV - DAY 2

There is a banner in the background that says "God and Ghosts." A middle aged man wearing a white kurta is talking with little air in his long and open hairs. He has his name written on the card placed below on the TV screen "Dr. Damodar." Another man is sitting in front of him wearing a formal shirt and glasses. Under his image the name written is "Anand".

DR. DAMODAR

RIHAAN

Han chutiye!

He takes few peanuts from the bowl and gulps down some whisky.

4 INT. IN THE TV - DAY 4

ANAND

5 INT. RIHAAN'S HALL - NIGHT 5

Rihaan changes the channel. A stand up show.

STANDUP COMEDIAN

If ghosts can go anywhere in the world why would she choose to come in my house?

Rihaan laughs and gulps another drink down. He takes few peanuts and throws it in his mouth. Some of it falls in his mouth some falls on the floor.

Suddenly he hears sound of water tap open in the kitchen that is on his left. He ignores it but then he hears the sound of someone washing dishes and dishes being kept in the utensil keeper. He stands up slowly and goes towards the kitchen. There is a curtain separating kitchen and hall. Kitchen's light is off however he sees something like a shadow through the curtain.

He starts breathing heavy. He slowly takes his hands and quickly moves the curtain aside. There seems to be nobody and the water tap stops running. He switches on the light and goes near the sink. The sink is wet and one steel plate in utensil keeper is wet as well.

RIHAAN

Behenchod! Jyada pee liya aaj...

He turns the light off and comes back to sit and watch the TV. Again the light of the kitchen turns on. The sound of tap running comes again and the dishes being washed. He also hears the sound of bangles colliding against steel plate. He looks in the direction, his expressions change like the sound of bangles is familiar.

RIHAAN

Kaun hai waha?

The sound of washing utensils stops.

RIHAAN

Kaun hai? (louder this time)

The sound of washing utensils again starts. Rihaan gets up and picks up the cricket bat lying in the corner of the room. He goes towards the curtain again slowly. He sees no one there but the tap is on. As he removes the curtain, he sees a lady wearing red nighty and red bangles like she is newly married. The lady turns towards him and her face is bloody.

Rihaan yells in fear and runs out of the kitchen screaming.

RIHAAN

Sunita!!

He gets in a corner, shivering with fear.

RIHAAN
Sunita... Sunita... how?

He notices sound of running water from tap has stopped. He again starts moving in the direction of kitchen slowly with bat in his hands. He sees through the curtain, no one is visible. He again removes the curtain and there is nobody. He moves forward towards the sink. In middle he feels something beneath hi feet. He looks down, its a pool of blood. As he steps away in fear he sees a same woman lying in that pool oh blood.

He starts hitting the woman with the bat in a fit of rage. He hits her repeatedly and after a while he realises that he is hitting the floor. He throws the bat away and goes in the store room. He brings a hammer and a digging tool. He breaks the flooring with hammer and then starts digging.

After digging for a while like a mad man he finds nothing but an empty ditch with soil. He takes few steps back in fear and collides with something.

He turns back to see it's a skeleton in the same red nighty and red bangles. The skeleton attacks him, piercing her skeleton fingers through his throat and Rihaan falls down in the ditch with his eyed wide taking his last breath.
